1. Introduction and governance principles

This Charter is subservient to the Constitution and the Incorporated Associations Act 2012, to the extent of any inconsistency.

Volunteering Victoria (“VV” or “the Organisation”) is governed under the Incorporated Associations Act 2012 and the Constitution.

The Volunteering Victoria Board seeks to ensure that its governance obligations are maintained at an appropriately high standard of accountability. This includes structures and processes in relation to decision-making and accountability, which control its behaviours and enhance its performance.

The VV Board will practice good corporate governance principles to:

- i. enhance the performance of the Organisation
- ii. understand and manage risks to minimise negative aspects and maximise opportunities
- iii. strengthen community support and member confidence in the Organisation
- iv. enhance the public reputation of the Organisation through transparency and accountability
- v. demonstrate how legal and ethical obligations are discharged
- vi. assist in the prevention and detection of fraudulent, dishonest and/or unethical behaviour.

2. Role of the Board

2.1 Overall role

The Board's overall role is to govern Volunteering Victoria, and it is the role of VV's management to implement and give effect to the strategic goals set by the Board and under its direction. The broad oversight role is to provide leadership, safeguard the organisation's interest, and ensure accountability and viability. Preparing adequately for meetings and contributing to discussion enables Directors to make good decisions, the Board is responsible for and should determine all matters relating to policy and must do all things reasonably necessary to ensure that VV meets all goals and objectives set by it. Accordingly it delegates a range of functions to the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) without diminishing its authority as a Board. Refer Appendix – Delegations Policy.

Specific roles and responsibilities for the Directors are set out in Sections 3 and 4 of this document.

2.2 Board term and composition

The Board is appointed by the members, who vest the governance and control of the Organisation in the Board.

Clause 13.3.1 of the Constitution stipulates that the number of Directors must be not less than 5 and not more than 9 (up to 7 elected by members and up to 2 appointed by the Board), unless Clause 13.3.3.1 is invoked.

Directors are appointed for an initial term of up to three years and, on completion of their initial term, are eligible for appointment for a further three years.

2.3 Board skills, expertise and effectiveness

Any person in good standing shall be encouraged to seek election/appointment to the Board provided the person is able to demonstrate the required knowledge, skills, experience and previous involvement in a leadership or Board capacity.

To ensure the effectiveness of the Board the Directors will;

- 1) conduct a skills audit of Directors every year to determine the overall matrix of skills, knowledge or experience of the Board in relation to steering and implementing VV's strategic direction
- 2) Ensure committees of the Board are established as necessary and will approve written terms of reference, appoint committee members and provide guidance to the committees.

2.4 Board recruitment

6. The relationship between the Board and the CEO

6.1 The relationship

The Board should not itself manage the organisation as this is delegated to the Chief Executive Officer. However, the Board must put in place policies, procedures and structures so that it is able to discharge its role of bearing ultimate responsibility.

The Board must set the framework within which the Organisation operates and, to an appropriate degree, oversee and supervise its operations. As well as bearing ultimate responsibility for the operations of the Organisation, the Board must be aware of and have due respect to the obligations of the Incorporated Associations Act 2012 as a matter of general law or as a result of particular obligations imposed under relevant legislation including the work health and safety.

The formal delegation of management authority is to the CEO, who will be the prime source of information to the Board. Subject to Board oversight, it is for the CEO, acting within his or her delegated authority, to determine how to conduct the management of the Organisation. However, the Board must:

- i. Be satisfied with management's plans for carrying on and developing its activities
- ii. Ensure that management will seek authority to undertake material changes to those agreed plans
- iii. Place limits on the extent to which management can commit resources or dispose of assets or raise funds without specific approval
- iv. Ensure that it is kept well informed of progress and events which might significantly affect the Organisation
- v. Monitor, so far as it reasonably can, the performance of those senior members of management on whom it is relying for the proper management of the business and its key component parts
- vi. Be aware of any significant risks to employees, the Organisation's standing, surplus and assets and endorse management's action plans to mitigate such risks.

The Board/CEO relationship is critical to the Organisation's ability to achieve its purpose and its strategic and governance objectives. To facilitate this relationship, only decisions of the Board are binding on the CEO. Accordingly:

- Decisions or instructions of individual Directors, officers or sub-committees are not binding on the CEO unless the Board has specifically delegated such authority
- Recognising the right of individual Directors to access information relevant to their governance responsibilities, the CEO may defer requests that, in his or her opinion, require a material amount of staff time or funds
- The CEO will immediately notify the Chair of such requests in order to achieve a mutually satisfactory outcome.

6.2 Responsibilities of the CEO

The CEO is responsible for the operational management of the Organisation and is accountable to the Board for exercising his or her approved delegations and the performance of the Organisation, including:

- i. Liaising with the Chair on operational matters of material interest to the Organisation
- ii. Making recommendations to the Board on significant strategic initiatives
- iii. Developing the Organisation's staffing structure for Board approval, implementing organisational structures, appointing staff, determining terms of appointment, evaluating performance, developing and maintaining succession plans for key staff within the parameters of the Organisation's Instrument of Delegations
- iv. Developing the operational (business) plan and annual budget and managing operations within the approved budget
- v. Advising the Board on actual and potential risks and maintaining an effective risk management framework and process
- vi. Informing the Board of any developments likely to have a material impact on the Organisation's performance
- vii. Developing and implementing an appropriate organisational culture and managing operations consistent with the values of the Organisation

- viii. Representing the organisation to the media and in other public outlets on matters which relate to Organisational operations.

The Board will monitor the decisions and actions of the CEO and the performance of the Organisation to gain assurance that progress is being made towards achieving the strategic priorities within the authorised delegations. The Board may also monitor performance through any Board Committees where these exist and it is more effective to do so, or necessary to avoid conflicts of interest.

The CEO will report systematically to the Board in a spirit of openness and trust on the progress being made by the Organisation towards its strategic priorities and its annual operating plan. The CEO will supply the Board and its Committees with information in an appropriate form to enable the Board and Committees to make assessments and judgements, to conduct inquiries, and to gain assurance that the CEO's decisions and actions, and the Organisation's performance, are directed toward strategic priorities.

Relationships and dialogue between individual members of the Board and the CEO and senior managers that focuses on gaining better understanding of the Organisation's operations will be encouraged but will not alter the roles, accountabilities and divisions of authority set out in this Board Charter.

6.3 Reward and evaluation for CEO

The Board will consider the remuneration for the CEO and anyone acting in the role of CEO in the context of previously stated criteria including, but not limited to, the Organisation's success factors, achievement of its strategic priorities, employment market rates for similar positions and the financial position of the organisation.

The Chair will lead an annual formal evaluation of the performance of the CEO using performance evaluation criteria approved by the Board, utilizing external consultants as deemed appropriate by the Board.
